

HEALING THROUGH IONIZATION

AND

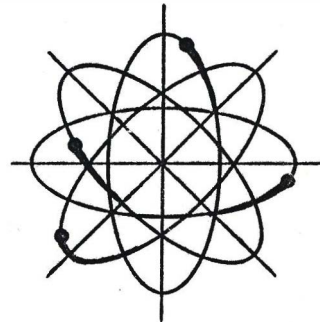

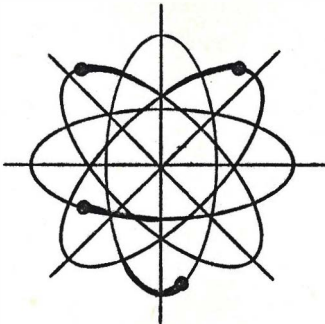

THE EQUATIONS OF LIFE

$$1.5 \frac{6.40}{6.40} 6.5C .04M \frac{3}{3}$$

THE RBTI EQUATION OF PERFECT HEALTH

WORLD IONIZATION INSTITUTE

A NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATION

The portion of this textbook concerning the Reams Biological Theory of Ionization is the genius of Dr Carey A Reams.

The Bible interpretations, their intent and the objectives of the World Ionization Institute have been initiated by the writers.

Price of this textbook is $50.00 plus $4.00 postage and handling.

All proceeds from this book will assist the World Ionization Institute. Before attempting to photostat this book, we ask you to please stop for a moment and examine your conscience! Think! How much is all of the information in this book worth? Isn't it priceless?

If you photostat, you are going to take away resources from the World Ionization Institute. These proceeds are needed to help you and all mankind.

Copyright 1983 by World Ionization Institute
All copyrights reserved.

WORLD IONIZATION INSTITUTE (a non-profit organization)
Box 100798
Ft Lauderdale, Florida 33310

Printed in USA

Your support of the World Ionization Institute will be greatly appreciated.

Thank you.

Price $50.00
Plus $4.00 for postage and handling.
Florida residents please add 5% Sales Tax.

CONTENTS

	Page
Oh This Human Nature.....	1
World Ionization Institute.....	2
Dr. Carey A Reams Story.....	7
Let There Be Light.....	14
Mankind Versus The Immutable Universal Laws, The Truth.....	25
The Bible - The Book Of Nuclear Physics.....	26
Ionization Of The Air And Soil.....	123
Pure Distilled Water.....	127
Circadian Rhythm.....	132
Forbidden Foods Of The Bible.....	134
Consciousness In All Biological Life.....	135
Exercise.....	137
Meditation.....	138
Rest And The Sabbath Day.....	141
Chemistry - Inorganic, Organic And Colloidal.....	143
Elements, Compound.....	144
Atomic Weight, Specific Gravity.....	144
Anion.....	144
Table Of Periodic Properties Of The Elements And Period Table Of The Elements.....	145
Cation, Millhouse.....	146
Reserve Energy.....	146
Proteins.....	148
Electrolyte.....	148
Catalyst.....	148
Path Of Least Resistance.....	149
Like Attracts Like.....	149
Frequency.....	150
Micronage, Milli-Micronage, Milli-Milli-Micronage.....	150
The RBTI Equation Of Perfect Health.....	151
Recording Of The Urine - Saliva Analysis.....	152
Sugar.....	153
Testing Foods For Their Mineral Content.....	158
Refractive Index Of Crop Juices.....	159

CONTENTS

	Page
Urine And Saliva pH.....	160
Gallstones.....	165
Salt.....	166
Albumin.....	169
Ureas.....	170
Body Chemistry Ranges.....	175
No Picture.....	177
Preparations For A Test.....	182
Calcium.....	182
Min-Col.....	184
Cal II.....	186
Lime Water.....	187
Calcium Lactate.....	187
Calcium Gluconate.....	188
Dolomite.....	188
Algazim.....	189
K-Min.....	190
Ferro Tonic - Iron.....	192
Whidden's Royal Jelly.....	193
Propolis.....	194
Chaparral.....	195
Comfrey.....	195
Golden Seal.....	196
Lemon Juice.....	196
General Rules In Regards To Vitamins, Minerals, Herbs And Digestion.....	197
Vitamin A.....	200
Vitamin B Complex.....	200
Vitamin B1, B2, B6, B12.....	201
Vitamin B17.....	202
Vitamin C.....	203
Vitamin D.....	206
Vitamin E.....	207
Potassium.....	209

CONTENTS

	Page
Chlorine.....	209
Manganese.....	210
Zest Tonic.....	210
Green Drink.....	211
Carrot Juice.....	212
Spirulina.....	212
Cranberry Juice.....	213
Cherry Juice or Concentrate.....	214
Apple Cider Vinegar.....	214
Onion, Beryllium.....	214
Coffee.....	214
Colonic Irrigation.....	215
Enema.....	216
Prune Juice & Constipation.....	218
Sitz Bath.....	218
Fasting.....	218
The Purpose Of Fasting.....	219
When To Fast.....	219
Who Should Fast.....	220
Facts, Rules And Guidelines For A Fast.....	220
Rules and Guidelines During A Fast.....	223
When To Break A Fast And The Withdrawal.....	225
How To Break A Fast And The Light Diet.....	226
Fasting Rules For Medication And Drug Addicts.....	228
What To Do After The Fast Is Completed.....	229
Spinal Adjustment.....	229
Helpful Hints And Rules.....	229
Items To Eliminate Totally.....	233
Foods To Avoid Or Limit.....	233
Children, The Wonders Of Life And Love.....	233
Sclera.....	236
Care Of Teeth.....	238
Legal Notice.....	240
Concordance.....	241

OH THIS HUMAN NATURE!

There are three procedures in the events of an unusual discovery* or unusual revealment.

First, its jealous close minded antagonists say the discoverer is crazy.

Later, that he is sane, but that his discovery is of no benefit to mankind.

And last, that the discovery is important, but everybody has known it right along.

* There is no such thing as an original discovery.

Everything is always a rediscovery, because nothing is ever new, no matter what it is, since it already has been in the infinity, in the universal mind which is without beginning or end.

THROUGH THIS
PORTAL
A GREAT
LEGACY OF THE
PAST...

WORLD IONIZATION INSTITUTE

A Non-Profit Organization

The objective of the World Ionization Institute is to teach man how to transform, transmute, equilibrate and ionize himself in preparation for an existence at a higher electromagnetic frequency. This will involve changing the present 3rd dimensional form of life in a way which will allow man to enter into the 4th dimension. When this occurs, mankind will then truly know what it is to exist and conform to the divine perfect immutable laws of the universe, achieving peace within man, and peace among nations in a new and perfect state of existence.

Everything in the time - space - existence - continuum is governed by the flawless unchangeable laws of God. It matters not whether man knows or believes in them. They are here for man to seek, find and to obey. No one is excused from any compliances. Break any one of the laws, and the uncompromising consequences of cause and effect will inescapably follow.

Genesis 1:26. "And God said, let us make mankind in our image after our likeness. So God created man in his own image (perfect, without sickness or death)."

This solar system including man is now expediently traversing into the 4th dimension and beyond. Thus man must equate his equilibrium unto an ultra high frequency through ionization and other factors.

This is the purpose of man's existence; so that he can go onwards in his nuclear evolution, unto higher dimensions and attain cosmic God consciousness. Cosmic God consciousness according to the Scriptures is:

Matthew 5:48. "You (mankind, all of you irrespectively) are to be perfected even as your heavenly father is perfected." Also:

Luke 17:20. "Someone asked Christ, when is the kingdom of God coming? He answered saying, the kingdom of God does not come by observation (only by sitting in meditation endeavoring to elevate your consciousness, or through prayers, or the like). Neither say, Behold! it is here, or behold! it is there (after death), for behold, the kingdom of God is within you (in every atom of your priceless, magnificent body, in every Omnipresent moment of your existence)."

For those who are striving to attain cosmic God consciousness or the kingdom of God, and fail to understand that the well being of the physical body is the prerequisite to attain this full spiritual cosmic God awareness, here are words of wisdom from the greatest book on earth, the Bible.

1 Corinthians 15:46. "But it is not the spiritual that comes first, but the physical, and then the spiritual."

As you can see, it is beyond a question of a doubt, that the first concern of man must be for the physical, before taking the second step, the spiritual. Man cannot develop in his spiritual understanding of God until he faces the major questions of life, which are: Who is he? Why is he here on earth? and, What is his purpose in life?

Here is the answer:

1 Corinthians 15:26. "And the last enemy to be destroyed will be death.

53. "For this corruptible body must put on incorruption, and this mortal body must put on immortality (while man is still alive he must prepare his physical body through ionization, so he will be able to transform and transmute it into an infinisonic nuclear energy light body).

54. "But when this mortal body puts on immortality, then shall come to pass, the word that is written, death shall be swallowed up in victory.

55. "O death where is thy victory? O death where is thy sting?"

As man is now approaching this new age of cosmic understanding, he is on the threshold of unlocking the vibrating, throbbing God power that dwells in the divinity of an atom.

Since everything created in the macrocosm and microcosm is composed of atoms - atomic energy, everything in the time - space - existence continuum is always in the process of nuclear evolution or devolution; that is, one can either expand, or contract, the power within the atom. By expanding the power, one can harness the atom to its full kinetic, ionized potential. By contracting the power within the atom, one wastes and fails to release the unlimited power of nature - the available inertia that is within every limitless unfathomable atom.

In a piece of paper one square inch, there is an abundance of unharnessed energy, sufficient to fly a giant jet many times around the world without refuelling.

And within every atomic cell of our magnificent priceless body, there is the never ending God power to accomplish the ultimate; overcome death.

Since man lost this knowledge, he must now find it and undo his mistake in order to regain his God heritage. This is the compelling law of the universe.

Wisdom 2:23. "For God formed man to be imperishable. In the image of his own nature God made man (immortal)."

And what is within man, in every divine atom of every cell of his body, is everywhere the same. And what is not within man, is nowhere else to be found; for man is the macrocosm and microcosm.

Thus, every man is a divinity in disguise. His destiny is to remove this disguise, so he can walk without the mask of foolishness upon him.

The best selling book on earth, the Bible, commands every man - physician know thyself and heal thyself.

If man does not know himself, who will? Meditate and you will.

Dr. Carey A. Reams has been actively involved for over 40 years in research. He has brought forth from the universal mind of God an exact and proven scientific program, "The Reams Biological Theory Of Ionization", with applications in: human nutrition, agricultural engineering and animal husbandry.

Many of Dr. Reams' theories incorporate Dr. Albert Einstein's $E=mc^2$ formula regarding the conservation of mass and energy. Dr. Einstein and Dr. Reams on many occasions have discussed the Theory of Relativity extensively.

Einstein's theories regarding energy are only half complete. Einstein knew how energy could be taken apart, but did not know how nature assembled it. When matter such as wood is burning, it gives off heat and electrical energy. A growing plant captures energy from the sun and converts it into matter; this deals with the missing half of Einstein's equation. The Reams Biological Theory of Ionization (RBTI) is the other half of Einstein's equation. Dr. Reams is a genius in the field of energy utilization, ionization and mineralization of the soil and all life: plant, animal and man.

The universal laws of nature are the laws of God, whoever violates any of them must encounter the outcome. When the laws of health are broken, the result is sickness and disease.

Disease means body not at ease or dis-ease; this occurs when the body is not at peace or in harmony with nature.

Although the reasons for health problems appear to be vast, they generally fall into one of three categories:

1. Emotional
2. Structural
3. Chemical

All three affect each other, but by far chemical imbalances and deficiencies play the major part. This translates directly as mineral deficiencies and imbalances because minerals are the keys to chemical balance in the system.

Dr. Carey Reams discovered the Biological Theory of Ionization and developed a unique urine/saliva test which reveals losses of energy in the system.

This is accomplished through the use of mathematical equations. An analysis of the urine and saliva is performed according to set standard procedure and a set of variables for an equation is obtained. The individual's equation is then compared to an equation which reflects perfect health. The deviations and sequences of deviations reflect energy losses. This test provides a precise and accurate picture of the body's chemical balance which is used to design an individual nutritional program which will help the body to be more energy efficient.

Everywhere - everything in the time - space - existence continuum is governed by the laws of ionization and conservation of mass and energy.

This means that mass and energy through ionization are perpetually either being taken apart or put together. For example: all biological life whether man, animal or plant does not grow in the sense that man envisions, but it is put together magnetically, ion upon ion according to a specific frequency. Likewise, these same ions can be taken apart or changed in various ways. The universal law of cause and effect governs this process of ionization and deionization as nature follows the path of least resistance.

An ion is an electrically charged particle of matter, moving in an electric field of energy, consisting of an atom or group of atoms.

The meaning of ionization in part is: to convert or be converted wholly or partly into ions, to render or conduct electricity by the formation of ions. One aspect of ionization is the conversion or adaption of various forms of energy which results in the availability to man of life sustaining nuclear energy and light. In other words, a higher form of energy in an enhanced form of existence is continually available once a new ionic equilibrium has been established and is thereafter perpetuated.

The following words of wisdom are quotes from: "The Weeping Angel Prophecy".

"A brand new concept will burst upon the waiting consciousness of all mankind".

"This concept will concern itself with the unlocking of the divinity of the atoms of which you are constructed".

"It will emphasize motive. Not the limited motive of mere survival, but the unlimited motive of spiritual nuclear evolution of the consciousness within the nucleus of the atom"

The World Ionization Institute will be instrumental in revealing this and opening the eyes of mankind to the truth.

Through the World Ionization Institute, a non-profit organization, people will gather together in joint participation, in a general assembly of cooperation to work toward a common goal. Here people will come from all walks of life with various professions, talents and skills offering their help. Communities and educational facilities will be built to accommodate the mentioned. Here the mutual learning, teaching and sharing of daily activities will be put into use, giving man a greater spiritual understanding of nature and love for one another; thereby bringing God back into the daily activities of one's existence.

United together under the goal of the World Ionization Institute, there will be strength and knowledge. Apart, there is weakness, because each one is going his own way with parts of the Divine Plan missing in their objectives.

Dr. Albert Einstein once said, "man can examine matter under a microscope up to a point, but when matter disappears he will have to revert to metaphysics". Metaphysics in part is: the unexplained, unseen and yet there; that area of science which lies between physics and the beginning of the spiritual.

True peace will only come when man first makes peace within himself, with nature and with God. When man is in a state of constant turmoil within himself, he will never find peace, no matter where he searches. When the body, mind and soul of man are sick and undernourished, he is out of rhythm with love and peace.

1 Corinthians 15:46. "But it is not the spiritual that comes first, but the physical, and then the spiritual."

Good health is being in accord and harmony with the laws of nature and of the universe. The laws of nature are the immutable laws of God. No man on earth has the power to absolve anyone from them.

The objective at this time, during this cosmic cycle, compels man to fully understand the mystery of life and conquer death. Thus man must now comprehend first the mystery of the physical, before he can go onwards to the second step - the perplexing spiritual.

And there was never a time that you were not in existence, and there will never be a time that you will ever cease to exist, for you are eternal, in the infinity without beginning or end.

The initial criteria to achieve the intent are:

1. Teach mankind the Reams Biological Theory Of Ionization and the equations of life.
2. Establish a full scale pilot project in agriculture.
3. Later this will expand to facilitate an unlimited potential that will stagger one's imagination.

Truly this is the scenario, the objective of the World Ionization Institute.

Great visions and understandings have always encountered violent opposition from mediocre minds - Albert Einstein.

All questions have answers - even immortality. Thus the greatest of all secrets, the mystery of life and death has no hidden answers from anyone, but each hides it from himself because of a mental inability to grasp it.

Love is the instrument that the Omnipotent God reserved for man to conquer. Through it, the mystery of sickness and death shall be swallowed up in victory.

Now if man were to let himself be guided by the light of reason and the Spirit of God, concerning the truth within these pages, he would let the mind be bold.

Time is of the essence!

DR. CAREY A. REAMS

Dr. Carey A. Reams is the discoverer of the Biological Theory of Ionization. He was born in 1904, in Orlando, Florida. During World War II he was a Major in the U.S. Army Corp of Chemical Engineers. While on his tour of duty in the Phillipines, he sustained severe injuries.

Dr. Reams had 177 pieces of steel shrapnel removed from his body. One of the pieces of shrapnel went right through his pancreas which is almost non-functional. The pancreas in the body is responsible for the production of insulin, alcohol and affects the production of thyroxine. The insulin regulates the level of sugar in the blood, the alcohol regulates the body temperature and the thyroxine regulates the body weight by dissolving excess fat from the system. His pancreas was so badly mangled that it was not regulating the alcohol, therefore his body temperature went down to 76 degrees. Dr. Reams is one of the 6 soldiers of World War II whose temperature went below 90 degrees and survived. There were a number of months when he was freezing to death while around him there was the sweltering heat of the South Pacific.

These injuries left him with severe pain and on crutches. Every moment was an agony. After the injury, he would often hemorrhage for long periods of time and was forced to drag his feet behind him while on crutches. This occurred in an earlier part of a very full and unusual life which is still unfolding as the years pass.

Men like Dr. Reams are very highly evolved souls. When a man has an important mission to fulfill, the hand of God is upon him. Herein is a further account of what happened to Dr. Carey Reams from the book, "I Believe in Miracles", by Kathryn Kuhlman.

"MISS KUHLMAN, EVANGELIST, HOLDS HEALING SERVICES HERE. CONVERT TOSSES AWAY CRUTCHES. Climax of the program was reached when a man on crutches, who said he had not walked unaided since 1945, was told to throw away his supports. He did so, and walked briskly up and down the aisles, back and forth across the stage, stretching his leg muscles as he was directed. Beaming, Miss Kuhlman carried his crutches, later casting them aside. The man declared through a loudspeaker that he had heard of Miss Kuhlman in Florida through a magazine article, and had made a special trip alone by bus, to Butler, to attend her services for healing."

These words blazened across the front page of the Butler (Pa.) Eagle, January 1, 1951. There was nothing secondhand about this newspaper story.

Evidently the editor of the paper or one of its reporters had sat among the crowd at the Penn Theater the previous day, watching wide-eyed at the marvelous manifestation of the healing power of God.

Carey Reams, the man who had thrown away his crutches, had three children. Only the eldest, four years old when he had gone off to war, thought she could vaguely remember what her father was like before he was almost fatally injured at Luzon during World War II. The other younger children had no recollection of ever seeing their father without crutches. So far as they knew, he had always been paralyzed from the waist down, suffering intense pain.

They listened wonderingly to other children talk of how their fathers took them on picnics and hikes in the woods and swimming - and knew that for some reason they couldn't understand, their father was different. With legs that couldn't move, he could never take them out on any sort of outing. How could he when he couldn't even walk?

Carey Reams was a Chemical Engineer in the services during World War II. On January 1, 1945, the Allied Forces established a beachhead on Luzon. Carey's unit was ordered to drive toward Manila and free those men who had been captured by the Japanese four years before.

It was a rough assignment. The unit happened to land in a marsh in water. As Carey says: "There was plenty of water, too, and every time we tried to get out on the highway, we were silhouetted against the sky, and snipers hidden in the mountains would shoot at us. We had to stay in the water the first day".

The second day the typhoon started, the heavens seemed to open as the rains poured down. On the fourth day, Carey's company commander was shot and killed within six feet of him. The commanding officer who immediately replaced him had his own engineer so Carey was ordered to the next company about six miles away. It was on his way there to report for duty that it happened.

By now the bridge was washed out, and the truck had to go around and over some fill. "It was on this fill", says Carey, "that we hit the land mine. The truck was blown to smithereens".

That was the last that Carey knew for a long time. Thirty-one days later he came to on an operating table, twenty-five hundred miles away from where he had been wounded. He didn't know where he was or what had happened, but as he regained consciousness, he remembered murmuring - and what he meant he still doesn't know - "I sure did land easy". Immediately after these words were spoken, he was anaesthetized for the ensuing brain surgery.

For the next six weeks, Carey floated in and out of consciousness - and then he was shipped home, more dead than alive. He was one of only five survivors in his entire company and, says he, with tears in his eyes, "There would be only four of us alive today had I not gotten to that service in the Penn Theater in Butler on that December 31 in 1950".

Carey's remark that he had "landed easily" made when he first regained consciousness, could hardly have been more mistaken.

He had been crushed from the waist through the pelvis; his right eye was gone; he had lost all his teeth; his jawbone was fractured; his neck was broken, and his back was broken in two places. The lower part of his body was completely paralyzed. His legs, like dead weights, hung entirely without sensation, but in those parts of his body in which he still retained feeling, the pain was incredibly intense.

"Any movement there", recalls Carey, "would cause almost deathly agony. And if, for example, my feet got cold, and the blood started to flow back up, it seemed to strike the nerves and the pain was almost unbearable. With no control of my body, and the awful pain, life didn't seem worth living except for my children. Because of them, I never really wanted to die - and I wouldn't give up".

At the same time, Carey was suffering, hemorrhage after hemorrhage and had lost sixty pounds in weight. Before his healing in Butler, he had been operated on some 41 times. He was all too familiar with the inside of hospitals - two overseas - then Letterman General Hospital in California - a hospital in Georgia - and in the five years prior to his healing, he had been repeatedly hospitalized in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Florida.

Although Carey's body was in such shocking condition, his mind was clear as crystal, and as he says, "I see now that God was taking care of me all along"; for many people who knew that Carey was a good engineer and could not go out on the job, brought him their engineering problems and blueprints - and although he could not walk a step, and for many, many months could not even leave his bed, he was thus able to support his family.

By December of 1950, however, he was in desperate straits physically. He was now virtually unable to eat food of any kind; he was suffering repeated hemorrhages, and his life was slowly but surely ebbing out.

"You know", he says, "sometimes we just have to hold on when there is nothing else to hold on to-and I was at that point. I was just hanging on to life by a thread".

It was a few days before Christmas when the local Veterans Administration doctor ordered Carey back to Bay Pines, the Veterans Administration Hospital near St. Petersburg.

"These Veterans Administration doctors are wonderful", says Carey, "and I can't praise them and the wonderful government hospitals enough. They give you the very best that science has to offer. But this time I refused to go. I remember saying, 'No, doctor. If I'm going to die, I want to spend this last Christmas with my family. It's only a question now of a few days until the holidays. After Christmas you can do whatever you want with me.' It was during these days," Carey continued, "that I happened to read an article about Kathryn Kuhlman in a national magazine. At the same time, I received letters from three different friends telling me about the healing services in Pittsburgh.

These friends had written to ask me why I didn't try to get to Pittsburgh to one of her services. "Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, did not seem so remote to me, for my wife was from Pittsburgh, and I also knew Clyde Hill, a driver for the Yellow Cab Company. The thought flashed through my mind that perhaps I could stay with my friend, should I decide to make the trip. The more I thought about it, the more I realized that getting to a miracle service was my last and only hope".

The big question was, how to get there? Not only was Carey paralyzed, but he was so weak from loss of blood through hemorrhaging that he could hardly sit up. He didn't feel physically able to ride to Pittsburgh under any circumstances. If he attempted the trip, he knew one of two things would happen: he would either die before he could return to Florida or he would be healed. "But," as he puts it, "I finally decided that God hadn't kept me hanging on to life by a thread for so long for nothing. I truly believed that He would heal me if I could just get to Pittsburgh - and that when I was well, He would give me something to do for Him".

On December 28, early on a Thursday morning, Carey, all alone, painfully and slowly climbed aboard a bus bound for Pittsburgh. Approximately thirty-six hours later he arrived at Carnegie Hall to attend the Friday Miracle Service. At the doors he was delivered a crushing blow: the service had been dismissed an hour before. He never dreamed the service had started at 9 o'clock in the morning!

Totally exhausted; on the verge of collapse from weakness so that even with the aid of his crutches he could scarcely stand; and in almost intolerable pain, he only wondered if he could hold out for the next two days, when his friend, the cab driver, would take him to the Sunday service scheduled to be held in Butler, Pennsylvania.

Throughout the next 48 hours, he had only one thought in mind - to hang on to life till he could get to the Butler Meeting. This was the determination - the faith, that God in His tender mercy would please give him the strength to live long enough to get to the Penn Theater at Butler on December 31, 1950.

He almost didn't make it. With less than 24 hours to go, he suffered another extraordinarily severe hemorrhage - which left him so weak he could not get up or walk with the help of two strong men. With their assistance he arrived at the Penn Theater.

At the front door almost all hope left him, for he was told that all seats were taken; there was no more room inside. There he stood, clinging to his crutches, supported by two men, in the freezing outside temperature. So near and yet so far - so weak that every minute seemed an hour.

Just as he was about to give up the last vestige of hope, someone inside who had noted his predicament offered him her seat. "I have been healed", she said. Grateful beyond words, he entered the theater. Did he feel the glory of God the moment he walked in?

"Not just at first", he smiles in recollection; "I was in so much pain when I first came in that for the first few minutes I couldn't even think about anything else but a little later I was to know Him as I had never known Him before.

"Just as I was being seated", recalls Carey, "Miss Kuhlman began to speak. The first thing she said was, 'The meeting this afternoon is a soul-searching meeting and not one for healing'".

If Mr. Reams had thought his hope was on the bottom rung of the ladder earlier, he found now that there was still another rung to go. There he sat, half frozen, so weak he had to use his crutches for braces to sit up, and he heard me say that this meeting was not for healing!

"I thought then I was dying physically", Carey says; "but now I know that I was only dying to self".

"It was a wonderful sermon", he continued in recollection, "and blessed everyone but me. I had traveled over one thousand miles to be healed; the meeting was coming to a close, and I had not been healed".

Many souls had been saved that day, more than fifty men had responded to the altar call, and many marvelous healings had been received, but Carey Reams was not among those healed. He was cruelly disappointed and was filled with utter despair.

The strains of the last hymn had just died away, and the theater was so quiet you could have heard a pin drop.

In Carey's words: "Miss Kuhlman raised her hand for a benediction, but she didn't speak a word, and my heart sank. At that moment all my hope was gone. Then very slowly her hand came down and she looked directly at me, and pointing a finger straight at me she said, 'Are you from Florida? My hopes soared as I replied, 'Yes'. Then," Carey went on, "she asked me to stand up and I said, 'I can't' - and she said, firmly, 'IN THE NAME OF JESUS, STAND UP AND LOOK UP, AND WALK!'"

Carey started to get up on his crutches. The aisles were narrow, and he had on a big, heavy overcoat. It was ten degrees below zero that day in Butler, and coming from Florida he wasn't used to cold like that. Attempting to get down that narrow aisle, bundled in an overcoat, paralyzed and manipulating crutches on the slanty floor - trying not to step on people's feet. It was no mean task to look up, but somehow he managed to achieve it.

"All of a sudden", relates Carey, "Miss Kuhlman said: 'Take that right crutch away'. I tried it and it worked: my leg bore my weight - and I remember being amazed how she knew this would be the case".

At that moment the pain in his body instantly vanished. "It was like a light going out," Carey described, "or like ink spreading on a blotter".

Realizing that his one leg was successfully bearing his weight, Carey dropped the second crutch and stood alone and unaided.

Miss Kuhlman then told me to come up on the platform," he relates. "The steps were very narrow and very steep-about twelve of them in all. Two big, strong gentlemen stepped up to my side to help me, but I didn't need any help. I walked on to the platform like a bird flying up. I seemed hardly to touch the floor, and I didn't walk toward Miss Kuhlman, I ran."

Was he surprised at his healing? "No, I was not," he replied in firm tone. "This is what I came for." Was he amazed when he found himself walking without crutches? "No, I was not," he responded. "I expected to walk without them."

And this is the answer. "On that first day, Miss Kuhlman told me to look up," Carey Reams says with a smile, "and I've been looking up ever since, in praise and thanksgiving to God."

The day after his healing, Carey borrowed a little over a hundred dollars from his friend, Clyde, using most of it for payment in full on a second hand truck. He needed a truck to take his wife's furniture, which was in storage in Pittsburgh back to Florida. That afternoon he helped load the truck with furniture, and drove it back to Florida!

A man, helpless, paralyzed and dying, was touched by the Great Physician-instantly healed, and the next day loaded a truck with furniture and drove all the way from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to Florida. This is God, and Carey Reams is a living testimony to His power.

Three days later he drove into his own garage in Florida and walked unannounced into the living room of his home where his three children were playing. All three children looked up and gasped as he strode into the room. They sat motionless for several seconds, they could not believe their own eyes, for this was the first time in their lives that the two youngest children had ever seen their father walking without his crutches. Then suddenly, the full realization of what had happened came upon them, their daddy could walk, their daddy was healed, and as Carey put it, "They all began to chirp. Only children filled with glee can make that peculiar chirrup sound, like happy birds." Half-laughing and half-crying, they jumped up and down and clapped their little hands, and then just looked.

"I was just so happy, I could not do anything but watch them and rejoice," Carey continued. "I hadn't realized that my rejoicing would go any further than myself, and the children really cared so much. But my, how they did rejoice that night! I only wish I had a picture of the joy and wonder on their faces as they saw me stand there without crutches, and then walk across the room to them."

With seventeen dollars left of the money he had borrowed from the cab driver-with this as his sole capital, he went into business for himself. From the very beginning, this business thrived. Carey is a Consultant Agricultural Engineer, and was a candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture for Florida.

There were some in the auditorium the day that Carey Reams was healed, who had difficulty in believing what they saw, so spectacularly dramatic it was. I, myself, had never seen Mr. Reams before; he had come from a great distance and I knew nothing about him. To allay any doubts as to the verity of his healing, I had his background carefully looked into. He was given excellent character references by all who knew him, including several judges. His previous condition was found to be exactly as he had claimed it, and his medical records are on file in the hospitals as he has stated. His healing is an indisputable miracle, wrought by an all-powerful and all-merciful God.

"Every night we have our family devotions. The children love you and will never forget you. They never hush talking about Miss Kuhlman." Greater appreciation I have never seen on the face of a man, than was expressed on the face of Mr. Reams as he spoke those words. I replied swiftly, what I believed: that this is simply because they are so greatful to Jesus for what He did for their daddy.

I urged him once again, to emphasize to his children that I had nothing to do with his healing. Such miracles are always due to the power of the Holy Spirit and His power alone. One thing God will not share with any human being, and that is the "glory." "For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever." Matthew 6:14

